

When you are given a theorem without a proof, it is only a statement. For a theorem we must prove why it is true using mathematics we already knew. This is proof.