

Proof is when you give evidence to how something is. It is a detailed step by step process to show how you get something with facts that you already know. There are many types of proof by exhaustion, contradiction, counterexample which all gives a result of the claim being true.