

Proof is when you show by previous mathematical knowledge that a theorem or claim is true. You can assume conditions to fit understanding of the proof. In a proof, you know how to start off and you're working towards the conclusion that you already know