

A proof is

- one way of explaining a concept to [insert]
- one way of convincing yourself that the theorem is correct
- something that is designed/written in such a way that doesn't leave any ideas missing
- written in such a way that most people can understand it