A proof is used to ensure statements are correct in order for mathematicians to use those statements to find answers